Resolved. That the recent afflictive dispensation of Providence in removing by death one of our number, while he was yet in the noon-day of life, while his families were yet inexperienced and their efforts to support them were not entirely successful, leaves us only of the possibility of human hopes, but that we have lost a true friend, a worthy associate, and the community a valuable citizen.

Resolved. That we earnestly desire to tender our sympathies to the bereaved parents of this affliction, most heavily felt, also the mourners of loss of one who has been a laborer with us in the field of intellectual conquest. whose presence has ever been hailed with pleasure, and whose loss will be deeply regretted, whose industrious deportment and Christian virtues were a bright example for our imitation.

Resolved. That as a token of our regard to the memory and virtues of our departed brother, we should be glad to wear the same badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved. That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to the relatives of the deceased, and published in The New-York Tribune, Feb. 4. R. A. RUSSELL, President. A. C. M. McMANUS, Recorder. [26 14]
